A GOOD COLLAPSE.

There is something of a gloomy feeling among a certain class over what they term the "collapse of the boom." Some "options" have expired, and the speculators have lost money, having been unable to find purchasers for real estate which they had bargained to buy. A few real estate agencies have closed, and the agents gone to other fields. We have heard of some of them "cussing" the town and proclaiming against the enterprise and go-ahead-iveness of the people. Nobody who is really interested in the welfare of Salt Lake is complaining about the collapse of any boom. On the contrary, every intelligent man who has anything at stake here, is gratified by the turn affairs are taking. Last winter a good many people were alarmed. Folks were going mad. Prices went beyond all reason, values not being taken into account by seller or buyer. People were crazy to buy and to sell, and the thought of actual worth did not seem to enter their heads. Conservative, thoughtful men looked on in amazement and with apprehension. They saw that speculation was at the bottom of four-fifths of the transactions, and feared that before there came a check to the mania much harm would be wrought. They knew that there must come a reckoning, and that the wilder was the speculation the greater would be the trouble when the evening-up process set in.

The Herald regards it as a most fortunate occurrence for Salt Lake that the senses of the people returned to them before the latter had become more deeply involved. We esteem it the subject for congratulation that the "boom" in which the speculators took such delight had the life squeezed out of it before it had time to work much mischief. The "collapse," which some are pleased to call it, was a most happy thing for the city, inasmuch as it has eliminated or will eliminate an element in which there was no good and much evil. Nobody has been hurt to any great extent, whereas three months more of last winter's work would have pauperized many, and given the city a black eye in the estimation of the world, from which it could not have recovered in years. It is time, if half a dozen real estate agents, whose capital consisted almost exclusively of stove-pipe hats and an unlimited amount of what is popularly known as "gall," have gone to the wall or anywhere else out of the Territory. The solid, intelligent agents, who have brains and business ability back of them, are not disappointed because the town is not overrun by eastern "tenderfeet" who are eager to pay three or four prices for town lots which they do not expect to improve. These cool-headed agents have no love for the boom which deprives men of their judgment, and makes temporary fools of men, only to punish them severely for their folly.

Salt Lake is making the right kind of progress, for it is not a boom progress. Speculation has almost entirely ceased, and purchases now-a-days, are largely genuine and for improvements. Houses are going up in every direction, and architects, contractors, builders, mechanics and laborers are all busy. It is a brick and mortar and stone boom which is now on, and not a boom which disposes of worthless land at outrageous prices, only to have the buyers in a short time turn about and denounce the sellers, the agents and the town as swindlers. Our present boom is putting dollars into improvements which will be permanent, and will not collapse if an enthusiastic boomer fails to sell a lot in time to save his "option."

There has been a collapse to the boom which was as unwelcome as it was dangerous, but there can be no collapse to the substantial boom which one can see on every hand, in the growing dwelling houses and business blocks, in the busy and well paid workmen, and in the cheerful countenances of the solid, intelligent citizens.

BLAINE.

The Chicago News presents the following list of favorites and the actual leaning of Republican and doubtful; takes. The News remarks on its showing: "What a confession of weakness and forlorn hope is presented."

State. Favorite Son, Second Choice. California... Leland Stanford. J. G. Blaine. Colorado... Unnamed. J. G. Blaine. Connecticut... Jos. R. Hawley. J. G. Blaine. Illinois... W. Q. Gresham. J. G. Blaine. Iowa... Wm. B. Allison. J. G. Blaine. Kansas... J. P. Ingalls. J. G. Blaine.

Maine... J. G. Blaine. None. Mass... John H. Long. J. G. Blaine. Michigan... Gov. Alger. J. G. Blaine. Minnesota... W. D. Washburn. J. G. Blaine. Nebraska... Unnamed. J. G. Blaine. Nevada... Senator Jones. J. G. Blaine. New Hampshire... W. E. Chandler. J. G. Blaine. New Jersey... Wm. W. Phelps. J. G. Blaine. New York... C. M. Depew. J. G. Blaine. Ohio... John Sherman. J. G. Blaine. Oregon... Senator Mitchell. J. G. Blaine. Pennsylvania... D. Cameron. J. G. Blaine. Rhode Island... Unnamed. J. G. Blaine. Vermont... G. F. Edmunds. J. G. Blaine. Wisconsin... J. M. Rusk. J. G. Blaine.

And in face of this showing which is based on the preferences as expressed in party convention and by the influential Republican press, there are some who profess the belief that Blaine will not be nominated. There are twenty-one Republican and doubtful States, and each has its own candidate with Mr. Blaine as its second choice. Of all the names mentioned there is not one who would be acceptable to all the States, and not one who could be nominated without the consent of Blaine; and there is no State but would adhere to Blaine as against all the other candidates save its own.

The men who gamble on such things may safely bank on Blaine as against the field.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN E. RUSSELL, of Massachusetts, has compiled and presented an instructive statement of the wages paid in England and Massachusetts in the cotton goods industry. It is instructive because it dispels the protectionist argument that protection is the friend of labor in that it makes wages high. Mr. Russell shows that while in the cotton spinning districts of England laborers are paid 75 cents per day, in Massachusetts they are paid only 92 cents a day. Spinners are paid $1.58 in England, and $1.65 in Massachusetts. Weavers get 90 cents in Great Britain and 95 cents in Massachusetts. This is all the difference there is between the laborers in the cotton-spinning industry in Massachusetts and England. It costs a good deal more for the laborer to live in Massachusetts than it does in England, and the American workman puts in several more hours a week than does his English fellow. In America the cotton manufacturing industry is "protected" by the tariff to the extent of 50 per cent.

SINCE HIS nomination to the Chief Justiceship the letters of congratulation have piled in upon Judge Fuller by the hundred. Some are highly complimentary, and all are interesting, but the most amusing is one which was received a few days ago from a forgotten acquaintance living in a New England State. The writer says: "It is now over thirty-two years since I saw you and in that time I may have passed out of your memory. But I can recall an incident which may refresh your recollection of me. We were boarding at —, you and I. One Sunday evening, I think it was, we had muffins for tea. By some calculation on the part of the cook there was just enough muffins to go round. But in the repeat it came about that somebody got more than his share. You were suspected of being the guilty party. I now want to confess to you that I was the guilty one. Time at length makes all things even to him who will but wait. You have got your muffin at last."

A GRAND scheme has been devised by a New York genius, who proposes to send passengers across the Atlantic ocean in eight hours by means of pneumatic tubes. He says that people can eat breakfast in New York and take a late dinner in Liverpool. The plan is such a good thing that the inventor wants this country to get all the financial advantages from it, and therefore he proposes to offer the scheme to the United States government. If Congress fails to accept the proposition to reduce the surplus in this way, the inventor will go abroad and this country will be left out in the cold. It is probable that the United States will take up the scheme at the same time it puts in operation the plan to build a railway to the moon.

There's something wrong with the stuff you put into it, may be, and something wrong in the way you tramp it down, but your stomach is all right." "A straightaway the patient discharged him."
